SAYS LACK OF LEADERSHIP IS RESPONSIBLE

Attorney General of Ohio Opens Republican Pre-election Campaign

RAPS UTILITY SYSTEM

Claims Legislative Majority Control in Hands of Anti-Saloon League

Declaring that lack of leadership and party responsibility in the legislature of Ohio enables a highly paid lobby to wield a powerful influence in that branch of the state government, Edward C. Turner, attorney general and prospective candidate for governor, addressing the opening meeting of the Republican campaign here last night, urged voters to rally their forces and put an end to this state of affairs.

The powerful lobby operates, the attorney general said, behind a "wet and dry barrage," control of the legislative majority being in the hands of the Anti-Saloon League.

In his address, given before an audience of approximately 200 men and women in the Eagles' Hall on W. Center-st, Turner designated restoration of party rule and party responsibility as a solution to the problem.

Urges Change

He paid especial attention to regulation of public utilities in the state of Ohio and pictured the urgent need of a change of the governmental system in this connection. Regulation of utilities and fixing of their rates through state commissions is a complete failure and the public is paying dearly for the faulty system, the attorney general declared.

Attacks on the system which is alleged to enable utility companies to levy an unfair toll on the public featured not only Turner's talk but also brief speeches made by Fred W. Warner, local attorney who is chairman of the state republican committee, and Grant E. Mother, Jr., former local city solicitor now employed as assistant attorney general.

Cites Lack of Leader

"When I returned to office I found the state house and legislative halls literally infested with lobbyists," Turner declared. "So well organized were the lobbyists that they were actually trading support. There is no effective leadership—no responsibility except to the wets or the drys, and the ship of state is floundering so far as several matters of great importance are concerned.

"I want you to realize that behind this wet and dry barrage is a very big, highly paid lobby which is participating in politics 365 days and 365 nights in each year."

It was through the operation of this lobby, masked behind the "wet and dry barrage," that the Marshall bill was enacted and proposed repeal of the Pence law defeated, Turner declared. The Marshall bill, which relates to fixing compensation of mayors and justice of the peace and will be submitted to voters of the state in a referendum in November, has been under attack from the attorney general in various speeches recently. The Pence law, which he strongly opposes on the claim that it gives unfair advantage to public utilities, enables these companies to collect rate increases under bond while protests are under consideration by the state commission.

The meeting last night was held under auspices of the Marion County Republican Club and was the first of a series which are planned for the next few

REQUEST MADE JOINTLY

W. H. Weiss Expecting to Complete Appraisal of Properties Within Month

The state utilities commission in Columbus today had under consideration a request that the commission authorize H. R. Allensworth, Columbus appraisal engineer and public accountant, and his assistants, to audit books, records and accounts of the Logan Gas Co.

The request was made jointly by Assistant Attorney General Grant E. Mouser, Jr., as special counsel for the City of Marion; City Solicitor James W. Miller, Bucyrus, and City Solicitor Don W. Myers, Elyria, on behalf of various municipalities, including Marion, Bucyrus, Ashland, Crestline and Elyria, which are protesting against the application of the Logan Gas Co. for the commission's approval of proposed increased rates for natural gas service.

The commission was informed by Mouser, Miller and Myers that these protesting municipalities have employed Allensworth to conduct an investigation of the Logan gas rate situation.

Want Data Filed

The protesting municipalities, also, asked that the state utilities commission not only authorize Allensworth and his assistants to examine all books of accounts and records of everything pertaining to operating revenues and expenses, property and original costs of property, but that the commission require the Logan Gas Co. to file all data

Address of General Motors Head Assures Auto Editors That There Will Be No 'War'

Plenty of Opportunity for Henry Ford and Giant Corporation to Serve Respective Fields Without Clashing, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Asserts

Milford Mich., Sept. 28—There will be no war between Henry Ford and General Motors.

This assurance was given by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corp., in a ringing address before the automobile editors of American newspapers this afternoon.

"There is plenty of opportunity in the world today for both," declared Sloan, amid applause.

Ford had been quoted recently to the same effect. However, rumbles of a great motor war between these two manufacturers have been reverberating throughout the business world for months—ever since, in fact about a year ago the General Motors Corp. lowered the price of their Chevrolet car to the approximate price of the Ford. Meanwhile, Ford has announced he was building a new model machine which is expected to be on the market about the first of the year.

Sloan's remarks on Ford were listened to with much interest. Deep in his speech on the progress of General Motors, Sloan abruptly turned from his subject to declare:

Honest Values Promised

"While I am speaking of our position in the industry, I am reminded of the fact that many of our newspapers and magazines seem to be devoting space to a discussion of the relative position of General Motors and Ford as important factors in the automotive industry, their present relation and their future relations."

Sloan evoked applause when he asserted:

"There is plenty of opportunity in the world today for Mr. Ford to give the public honest value, which of course he will do, with the result that he will sell an enormous number of cars per year and there is an equal opportunity for General Motors to give the public honest value at a higher price and likewise sell a very large number of cars per year."

INQUEST INTO DEATH IS HELD

Will Be Continued After Further Probe Says Coroner Osborne

An inquest into the death of Saverio Cangro, who died at his home on E. George-st Sunday morning from burns, was held in the office of Chief of Police Thompson at the city hall late yesterday afternoon by Dr. B. D. Osborne, coroner. The inquest was attended by Fire Chief McFarland, Chief of Police Thompson, Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann and a representative from the office of the state fire marshal at Columbus.

No verdict as to the manner in which the Italian had received the burns was reached, Dr. Osborne said today, and the inquest was continued until after further investigation.

Mrs. Cangro and several other Italians were questioned but were unable to supply little information, it is said, which might lead to a solution of the mystery.

STATE-ST WORK TO START SOON, MOLONEY SAYS

Material on Ground for Track Repair, C., D. & M. Attorney Announces

ANSWERS CITY COUNCIL

Davids-st Improvement Expected to Reach Completion Next Week

Work of repairing the tracks and right-of-way of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion tracks on N. State-st will start just as soon as it is possible to do so, W. P. Moloney attorney for the company said this morning in answer to the threats made by city council at its meeting Monday night, to fill in the depressions in the right-of-way with crushed stone, unless the street car company proceeded in a short time with the repair of the tracks.

The material for the repair of the tracks is on the ground Mr. Moloney said. Just what day the work will be started he was unable to say. State-st work will start with the completion of the Davids-st work. New steel has all been laid on Davids-st and concrete poured in readiness for the laying of brick. With the continuation of favorable weather, it is expected the street will be completed by the early part of next week.

Calls Attitude "Unfair"

"It has been the plan of the company to start work on N. State-st just as soon as work was finished on Davids-st," Mr. Moloney said, "and it is still our plan to do so." In view of the fact that the city street car lines are operated practically without profit, it was pointed out by the company representative, it was decidedly unfair of city officials to continue their "riding" of the company.

It was pointed out by Mr. Moloney that the company spent approximately $20,000 in the repair of Davids-st and will send fully that much if not more in the repair of N. State-st. Since the money must come from some source other than the earnings of the street car line, it will be only fair on the part of city officials to show more consideration of the company's efforts.

Marion citizens who invested money in the street car company in 1918 have never received one cent on their investment, Mr. Moloney said. This, he said, was due in part at least to the fact that the street car fare as well as the rate for electric current is lower in Marion than in any other city of the state of Marion's size.

M'DERMOTT, RUDNER WON'T SEEK TRIALS

S. A. Langel Only Convicted Canton Man After New Hearing

Canton, Sept. 28—Neither Pat McDermott nor Ben Rudner, both serving life sentences in the penitentiary for complicity in the Don Mellett slaying, will seek new trials, according to a statement today from E. L. Mills, defense attorney.

A motion by the defense will be argued before the court of appeals Thursday or Friday, asking that Rudner be released on the ground that the second degree murder verdict brought in against him was improper, and that he should either have been convicted of first degree murder or acquitted.

Prosecutor Harley says he will ask that the petition be overruled. McDermott may be released, even if the Appeals evidently does not [illegible] grant it. Should it be granted [illegible] would be [illegible] police chief, it [illegible] the [illegible] two [illegible] will [illegible] years.

E. CHURCH-ST HOME LOOTED OF DIAMONDS

Mrs. P. E. Studebaker Discovers Theft While Preparing to Attend Theater; Three Large Rings and Half-Moon Shaped Breast Pin Taken

BELIEVES JEWELS WERE STOLEN MONDAY NOON

Young Man Posing as Telephone Repairman Who Visited Residence First of Week Being Sought; Phone Company Officials Say Suspect Not on Force

THEFT of jewels, estimated to be worth $7,000, was discovered last night at the home of Mrs. P. E. Studebaker, 762 E. Church-st, and today police authorities are reported to be hunting for a young man who is suspected of having committed the robbery while posing as a telephone repair man.

The robbery is believed to have taken place about noon, Monday, when the supposedly bogus telephone man called at the Studebaker home. Mrs. Studebaker did not discover her loss, however, until early last night when she went to get the jewels, preparatory to attending one of the local theaters, and found them missing.

She immediately notified the police department, she stated today.

The missing jewels, Mrs. Studebaker reported, are three large diamond rings and a half-moon shaped breast cluster pin.

Description of Loot

One of the rings has a cluster setting described as being equal to the size of a 25-cent piece, centered with two large diamonds with a circlet of smaller stones on the outside.

Another ring has a setting of two three-carat diamonds and the third has a sapphire in the center with a one and one-half carat diamond on each side, one stone being slightly larger than the other.

The breast pin setting has a large diamond in the center with small stones on either side tapering down to a point.

The gems are partially covered by insurance, Mrs. Studebaker reported.

Deny Knowledge of Case

Telephone company officials are reported to be assisting police in a search for clews to trail the robber, although Chief of Police Thompson today denied any knowledge of the case.

Although it has not been determined absolutely that the supposed telephone workman took the jewels, all circumstances point to him as the guilty party, reports of the investigation indicate.

He is described by Mrs. Studebaker as being slender and about five feet, 10 or 11 inches tall and 21 to 23 years of age. His complexion was light, eyes blue and his facial lines small and sharp.

Telephone company officials, it was stated today, say that they have no man on their repair force answering to this description.

Pieces Gems In Drawer

Mrs. Studebaker states that she returned Sunday night from a visit to Lima and placed the jewels in the drawer of a dresser of her room. She always made a practice of wearing the gems while way from home, chiefly to guard against theft, she stated today.

Monday morning, she was engaged in canning work, and was in the midst of this task shortly before noon when called to the door by a ring of the bell.

Krider was driving the truck, it is said, which was conveying goods from Marion to Massillon. The truck belonged to the Merchants' Transfer Co., this city.

The goods belonged to Zebeckas, the third man on the truck. The Merchants' company received a long distance telephone call about the accident but without detailed information.
